February CREB Statistics Summary

With gains in every price range, residential sales activity in February totaled 1,836. This reflects the best February since 2014. "Despite continued COVID-19 restrictions, housing activity continues to improve. Much of the strong sales activity is expected to be driven by exceptionally low mortgage rates," said CREB® chief economist Ann-Marie Lurie. "Confidence is also likely improving as vaccine rollouts are underway. Additionally, some of the worst fears concerning the energy sector are easing with recent gains in energy prices." New listings also improved in February, but the gap between new listings and sales narrowed. This is causing the sales-to-new-listings ratio to rise to 65 per cent, keeping the months of supply well below three months. Conditions are far tighter in the detached sector of the market, especially for product priced below $600,000, where strong sellers' market conditions are present. The market has faced relatively low inventory levels compared to sales for the past several months and prices continue to trend up. Detached product has the lowest months of supply and is also exhibiting the most significant gains in prices. On the opposite end of the spectrum, the apartment condominium segment still has a relatively high level of inventory compared to sales, which is impacting price recovery for this property type.

Alberta Staycation Bucket List

Changing tunes from my usual posts. We don't know what the summer holds, but keep dreaming and have some fun! I've included the Stuart family list too!

- ✔ Visit a historical site:
 - ✔ Fort Calgary! Our own backyard and the kids have never been there!
- ✔ Stay in a unique accommodation:
 - ✔ West Ed Mall would be fun! We've never stayed there in a theme room...
- ✔ Eat something new:
 - ✔ The kids want to try rattlesnake!
- ✔ Experience a thrill:
 - ✔ Either ziplining or the Columbia Icefields glass walkway
- ✔ Travel in a new way:
 - ✔ Biking through the Hoodoos
- ✔ View a natural wonder:
 - ✔ I'd love to show the kids Maligne Canyon
- ✔ See an engineering marvel:
 - ✔ Maybe we'll go see the Lethbridge viaduct?
- ✔ Make viewing art a destination:
 - ✔ Lots of art downtown!
